to getting there is what sets him apart from others in the 'life coaching' realm.

He continues to receive praise on his ability to motivate others to double, and even triple, their income. This has created a strong passion in Jeff to work with individuals in the business world that is visually seen and felt by all those who work with him. ### Lisa Allen - Executive Director Personal Excellence Coach

Sometimes it takes a swift kick in the rear to bring things into crystal-clear perspective. After years of trying on different careers to find the 'perfect fit', Lisa has found her true niche in working with like-minded individuals who consistently strive to live their personal best each and every day. By helping clients zero in on their true goals—not the goals others want them to achieve, but the authentic goals they really hold dear to their hearts, Lisa helps them not only succeed in business but in life. And takes it one step farther than many other 'coaches' by developing personalized plans to hold every client accountable to their own success.
